The smart oil & gas search

Are you part of the oil and gas industry in Canada?
Do you provide services to oil and gas companies?
Do you ever tell yourself that you don't have the budget or time to advertise?
Or do you not know where to start advertising online?

Truth is, generally speaking, ALL businesses should advertise regardless of their size.

- Common printed directories and online search engines generally contain broad searches and information.
- If a company does not have a website or if they are inactive on social media sites, they may not show up on internet search engine results.
- Due to the lack of advertising, engineers, site supervisors, operators, and other oil and gas professionals have experienced a hard time finding all the products and services that are available to them.

WHY is oilgaspages.com different and how it can help you...

- It can be challenging and expensive to get your name out in the oil and gas industry. Some professionals looking for your products and services may not know you exist!

Oilgaspages.com...

- Is an inexpensive method to advertise your products or services.
- Allows industry professionals to find the products and services they are looking for FASTER.
- Uses a sophisticated patent pending SMART search engine that determines which product or service a user is seeking.
- Allows industry professionals to find companies and complete projects faster and most importantly INCREASE productivity.

Oilgaspages.com...

- Contains a COMPANY search and a user can search for the name of a company to find information on that company!
- Contains a location filter which allows users to filter search results based on a location such as cities and towns across Canada and will search for results up to 150 kilometres away.
